To Press For Limit On Arms

Delegation of U. S. Anxious to Dispose of Troop Inventory Issue

By John A. Parris, Jr.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 26.—(AP)—The United States prepared today to press for immediate United Nations action on a world arms limitation program, including international control of atomic energy.

Authoritative sources said the U. S. delegation was anxious to dispose of the world troop inventory question and concentrate on disarmament, which it considers the most important issue before the 54-member U. N. political and security committee.

Because of this position, these sources said, the U. S. was "likely" to vote against a British proposal for an "on-the-spot" double check of a troop census demanded by Soviet Russia.

The United States was understood to feel that if the troop inspection proposal were adopted the major problem of arms limitation would be indefinitely delayed.

There was a possibility that Soviet foreign minister V. M. Molotov would appear before the political committee today to oppose the new British proposal.

In submitting the inspection board proposal, Britain said it was prepared to abandon the demand by foreign secretary Ernest Bevin last week that the troop inventory and disarmament troops be merged and discussed immediately.

New Proposal

This was considered a concession by Britain, but it was followed by a new proposal by British delegate Philip Noel-Baker that:

1. The information on troops should be furnished as of Jan. 1, 1947 and on Jan. 1, 1947. The Russians had proposed that the information should be made available within 30 days after the adoption of the resolution and as of Nov. 1, 1946.

2. The information "should be immediately subjected to an effective United Nations system of verification on the spot by a committee to be established by the security council" before Jan. 1, 1947.

The necessity for settling the troop census question immediately and getting to work on disarmament was emphasized before the committee by Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.).

Connally called on the committee and the whole United Nations for an immediate start on discussions of the "whole problem of disarmament."

While the U. S. is prepared to discuss the troop inspection proposal put forward by Britain, the American delegation is insistent that complete inspections in atomic energy control be provided for in the disarmament plan.

Russia has stoutly fought against the American proposals for atomic energy control inspections.

Meanwhile, the small nations prepared to resume the battle on the veto in the United Nations.

Convention of Young People

A two day convention of the Christ ambassadors, composed of the young people of the Assemblies of God, will be held in Sedalia Wednesday and Thursday at Convention hall, Liberty park.

Although it is a convention of the southern district of Missouri, people from several other states will be present and an attendance of between one thousand and fifteen hundred people is expected.

Rev. Marvin L. Smith, district superintendent of Alabama, a nationally known speaker, will address the group each night at 7:45 o'clock.

Mel Hargis, who at one time was one of the five leading concert pianists in the United States, will appear on the program at the convention. Mr. Hargis was also at one time with some of the leading orchestras and has crossed the U. S. fourteen times, both ways on concert tours. He gave up both concert appearances and orchestra work to go into religious work.

The convention will be presided over by Rev. Loren Wooten of Kansas City, district president.

There will be three services on Wednesday starting at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and four services on Thursday beginning at 9:30 o'clock that morning.

Rev. Bird Campbell is pastor of the Assembly of God church in Sedalia.

Discuss 'March of Dimes' Plans

Edward P. Mullaley, right, Sedalia postmaster, chairman of the Pettis County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and director of the 1947 March of Dimes in Pettis County, talks over plans for the forthcoming fund drive January 15 to 30 with Robert T. Hensley, state chairman, at a statewide meeting at the Hotel Mayfair in St. Louis. The Pettis county representative joined with other county campaign directors and chapter officers in a discussion of the polio situation in Missouri and of the urgent need for funds to replenish national and chapter treasuries depleted in the serious outbreak of the disease this year.

DETROIT, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Cars driven by Harold R. Donaldson, 54, of Memphis, Mich., and Henry Doeren, 60, of Detroit, collided in a minor accident Monday night and the two stepped into a safety zone to exchange names and addresses.

"Why, I know you," Doeren said. "You work for the Budd Manufacturing Co. I've talked with you over the phone many times in the past 20 years."

Rev. Swan is Club Speaker

Tells Optimists Of Experience as Army Chaplain

The Rev. L. A. Swan, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, was the speaker at the Optimist club at the noonday meeting held at Bothwell hotel today.

As an army chaplain for three and one-half years the speaker had many experiences which brought him near to men in service. Of them he said: "They not only sought our advice, but were ever ready to tell us what they thought."

Mr. Swan praised the men with whom he came in contact, told of the various types of characters and the general mental problems. Particularly he stressed the loneliness of the men in distant and desolate posts.

Praised Club Spirit

The speaker also praised the spirit of the Optimist club and said that he found it enlightening to be in a group of Optimists which ignores the tendency toward pessimism on the part of some people and progresses on the path the high ideals set out by the Optimist creed.

Lee Brandt, program chairman for the month, introduced the speaker.

Rev. Walter P. Arnold was a guest of T. E. Harris.

J. H. Robbins was welcomed into the club as a member.

The club voted to support the Sedalia Boy Scouts and a letter will be sent in their behalf to the Boy Scout headquarters in New York.

Dr. Ben Klein, president of the club, presided over the meeting.

Travel Decrease of Over Thirty Per Cent

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 26.—(AP)—A decrease of more than 30 per cent in rail travel through the St. Louis terminal since September 1 was reported last night by Henry Schmitten, terminal traffic manager. The ticket office staff at the Union station has been reduced from 170 to 100 persons, he said.

Schmitten attributed the decrease to the reduction in travel by military personnel.

after leaving this city thirty-five years ago.

He was most favorably impressed at the many changes that have taken place in the first twenty-five years since his leaving and even more so at the progress made in the still later years.

That part of Sedalia he resided in while here, in the west part of the city, has been filled in with elegant homes, when there were but few such ones those few decades ago.

Plans by GOP For a Probe on Communists

Chief Business Of Group to be Designated

By William F. Arbogast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—(AP)—An exposure of Communist influences in the government, in unions and in Hollywood was ticketed today as the chief business for the house committee on un-American activities in the new congress.

Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-N.J.), who will head the group, made clear in a statement of his plans that President Truman's move to "purge" the federal payrolls of Communists and "subversive" persons will not deter the committee from pressing its own inquiry in that field.

He listed as a committee aim "to expose and ferret out the Communists and Communist sympathizers in the federal government."

Mr. Truman, by executive order, created an interagency commission yesterday to work out standards and procedures for locating and dismissing disloyal persons who have gained federal employment.

The commission also is to make recommendations on whether present regulations give the government adequate protection against employment of disloyal and subversive persons. It is to report to Mr. Truman by February 1.

The president's action was in line with recommendation made last summer by a house civil service subcommittee.

Suggested Commission

The commission is to be made up of one representative each from the justice, state, treasury and navy departments and the civil service commission. Attorney General Clark appointed A. Devitt Vanech as the justice department representative who is to be chairman.

Vanech, a native of Stamford, Conn., has been a special assistant to the attorney general since 1933.

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss), who will head top Democrat on the un-American activities committee, said the group would welcome cooperation from the president's commission. He called creation of the commission "a step in the right direction."

Three Shot in Fight With Police

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Three men were shot and seriously wounded early today in a fight which developed after two East St. Louis policemen attempted to question them.

Detective Sgt. William Klaus said the men identified themselves as George L. Gorman, 25, St. Louis, shot three times in the abdomen; George Wallace Holski, 20, Chicago, shot in the abdomen and right lung; and Homer Hanneman, 23, Kansas City, shot through both hips. They were taken to St. Mary's hospital here.

Police Sgt. Fred Theriac said he and Patrolman Stanley J. Sieron, Jr., accosted the men after they saw them standing near a wholesale liquor company building. Theriac said the shooting followed when one of the men struck him on the head with a pistol.

Theriac, who suffered a slight gunshot wound on the left wrist and head abrasions, said the men gave the names as Holski and Gorman were armed with pistols and that the third man carried leather knuckles, weighted with shot. Patrolman Sieron was not injured.

No charges had been filed against the three men.

Real Day of Thanks By Saved

To be Observed With A Banquet by the Dozen in Crash of Transport Plane

By G. K. Hadenfield

VIENNA, Nov. 26.—(AP)—A dozen Americans who spent five days marooned on a treacherous glacier high in the Swiss Alps sit down together Thursday at a traditional Thanksgiving Day banquet, and together give thanks for their dramatic rescue.

The 12, six of them still hospitalized here, made the Thanksgiving dinner date last Thursday, when there was little hope that they would be anywhere on that feast day but on the crevasse-faced Gauli glacier, huddled in their crashed C-53 transport plane.

They had feared — although they hesitated to admit it to each other — that there was not much hope for them, but what the four women and 11-year-old girl among them did not know was that a crevasse 150 yards from their plane was beginning to crack even while their discussion was under way, and that they were on the brink of disaster. The men told the women the noise they heard was only the fuselage, cracking because of the cold.

Didn't Know It Crashed

Little Alice Mary McMahon, now snug in the home of Brig. Gen. Loyal M. Haynes, one of her fellow passengers, did not even know the plane had crashed-landed until she was told. She said she believed it was just another of the heavy downfalls the plane had been hitting for several hours.

All the little girl wanted to forget about the whole ordeal — and she is afraid it will be the one thing that will be remembered — is that when the party began moving their luggage out of the plane just after the crash, she asked: "Will you please get that little bag of mine so I can have my paper dolls?" She got them.

Another of the passengers, civilian George D. Harvey, was puzzled to learn that he had not been listed on the plane's manifest. A war department employee at headquarters in Austria, he said he was on official business with orders to proceed to the 61st quartermaster depot at Livorno, Italy.

Order Murder Charge on Girl

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 26.—(AP)—County Prosecutor Michael W. O'Hern today ordered first degree murder charges brought against 17-year-old Frances Wanstret, who for the last 10 days has insisted she pushed crippled Ross Key, Jr., into a river and reiterated her story to police in a signed statement after the boy's body was recovered yesterday.

O'Hern instructed the preparation of the charge after learning from Judge James W. Broadbush of the juvenile court that Missouri laws prohibit trial of a 17-year-old on murder charges in a juvenile court.

Police Lieutenant Charles Welch said the body was found floating on the water at a point just across the stream from where the girl said she pushed him in.

Since the disappearance of the crippled boy a wide search had been underway for him. Last week police used dynamite in an unsuccessful effort to locate the body.

Ten days after the boy was reported missing Lieutenant Welch said the 17-year-old girl, told police she had lured him to the river bank and pushed him into the water because he had been teasing her. Police quoted her saying the boy had killed her pet dog and had thrown stones into a laundry basket containing clean clothing.

Her mother, Mrs. Ivan Wanstret, insisted her daughter was innocent of the crime adding "she wouldn't do a thing like that."

She said the girl left school in the spring of 1945 because of illness.

Suitable Haul

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Benjamin Kolkey told Fillmore police that a burglar broke into his home and stole six suits of clothes.

He expressed the hope the officers would find one of them, which he described as especially valuable. In one of the pockets, he said, was $980 in cash.

Injured in a Freak Accident

Miss Betty Blair, 1700 South Montgomery avenue, was the victim of a freak accident at 11:45 o'clock Monday night when she was struck by L. D. Henness, 1100 South Osage avenue, when he fell from a banister at Convention hall. She suffered a slight concussion when Henness' feet struck her on the right side of the head.

Melvin Wolf, 903 West Tenth street, her companion, received a bruise on his left shoulder when he was also struck by Henness. Miss Blair was treated at the Bothwell hospital and later sent to her home. Her injury was painful but not believed serious. Today she had stiffness in the neck and a cold.

Henness, according to the police, was sitting on the banister which leads to the balcony from the lobby of the hall. He was about two steps from the top landing. He told the officers that he turned to wave at some friends and lost his balance and fell.

He went down feet first, striking first Miss Blair, and then Wolf. He was not injured.

Miss Blair was rushed to the hospital in the new Cadillac ambulance of the Ewing funeral home.

The accident occurred during the Tony Pastor dance.

Post Office to Close Thanksgiving Day

Need $2,997 In Chest Drive

Report of $11,402.97 Is Made at Meet Of Committee

In a Community Chest committee meeting Monday reports showed a total of $11,402.97 cash received on a goal of $14,400. None of the Division Captains have finished their drive, due to the fact that several of their contributors were away from their business or a little slow in turning in their reports. The committee urged that a final appeal be made to Sedalians to raise the balance, $2,997.03 before November 30th.

It is essential that we reach this first-time Community Chest goal for the Salvation Army, Girl Scouts, Melita Day Nursery, Colored Day Nursery and Local Boys work. The general chairman, Roy Schick, is convinced that the goal will be reached if those who have not yet turned in their reports will do so immediately, and those who have not yet given will voluntarily bring their gift to the Chamber of Commerce.

Friends of the organizations to be benefited will do well to talk up the need of reaching the goal and to make this a real victory for our peace-time community chest. Again all division leaders, solicitors, are urged to finish their task and turn their reports in this week, and those not contacted by the solicitors are urged to send in their check or pledge.

Bothwell Hospital Notes

Mrs. James Franks, 1309 West Fourth street, admitted for surgery.

Judy Grimes and Janice Grimes, of Beaman, and Judy Kay Gardner, 1717 South Barrett avenue, admitted for tonsillotomy.

Mrs. Harry D. Gluth and son, 1722 South Grand avenue, dismissed.

Suzanne Wasson, 9 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Wasson, 508 North Grand avenue; Mrs. Everett W. Oswald, 1307 South Kentucky avenue; Mrs. S. C. Jackson and son, 423 East Harvey; Dr. J. M. Edwards, Cross Timbers; Mrs. Mattie Schoenberger, 409 West Sixth street; Mrs. Tillie Chapman, 1118 Wilkerson; Earl Summers, route 1, Beaman; Adolph Fiene, 320 East Howard, dismissed.

Recheck Check

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The First National bank was combing through its records of the past 53 years trying to find out what belonged to $1,000 belonging to one E. C. Cutler.

The search started after I. C. McManis, a custodian at Kansas State college in Manhattan, Kas., found an uncashed check. The date on it was October 25, 1893, and it was signed by Cutler.

Press for Speed in John Lewis Trial as Fuel Curbs Expand

Confining Fuel

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Junior high school students listened enviously to reports that students in all other Cheyenne schools would have "coal shortage" vacations.

Then they petitioned their principal to have the school heating plant converted "immediately to coal."

It is the only one in the city using gas for fuel.

Workers off Jobs Due Strike Are Increasing

Another Action On Lewis Started In Virginia

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Unemployment in industries depending on coal for fuel soared today to more than 60,000, some schools and colleges prepared for extended Thanksgiving vacations, and large corporations sought means of stretching their supplies through the shutdown of the country's bituminous coal mines.

Toledo reported that approximately 27,000 industrial workers would be idle beginning tomorrow either because of supply and material curtailment or the shortage of coal.

Railroads, ordered to reduce their services by 25 per cent, have laid off close to 10,000, mostly in the middle west.

Another 10,000 have been furloughed by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., 13,000 by the Johnstown, Pa., and Sparrows Point, plants of the Bethlehem Steel Co.

As far west as Walla Walla, Wash., many schools and colleges already have closed their doors and will not open next week unless the walkout of the miners is ended. Several large industries, such as Bethlehem Steel, at Lackawanna, N. Y., are spreading available work among their employees.

Additional thousands were expected to be furloughed by U. S. Steel Corp. as the result of a 65 per cent slash in operations scheduled to start today in Pittsburgh and Youngstown plants of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp.

Forty-five out of the nations 227 blast furnaces dependent on coal-derived coke to keep burning were banked.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., which had 10,000 idle, cut production in the Youngstown area by 50 per cent. Bethlehem Steel Corp., laid off 8,000 of its 14,000 employees at the Johnstown, Pa., plant and 5,000 more at the Sparrows Point, Md., works.

At its Lackawanna, N. Y., works Bethlehem Steel put 2,000 workers on an alternating workday schedule to avoid complete layoffs as open hearth blast furnace and coke oven departments and blooming mills were cut to half capacity.

Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. reduced production from 95 to 63 per cent and furloughed 1,100 workers in Pittsburgh district plants.

More than 3,250 rail workers were laid off as the railroads lopped schedules to conserve fuel. Also thrown out of work by the coal walkout were 1,200 truckdrivers and 500 rivermen.

Western Maryland railroad and Baltimore and Ohio each laid off 1,000. Illinois Central shops at Paducah, Ky., closed, idling 1,158, and 165 railroad workers in Utah were laid off.

Strike In Sixth Day

As the strike went into its sixth day, more than 28,000 workers in other industries already had been thrown off their jobs in direct repercussions.

Schools, steel mills, railroads and hundreds of communities began to feel the pinch acutely.

The government clamped down new curbs on deliveries of coal to schools and all government buildings, ruling that they must apply to the Washington office of the solid fuels administration for permits.

The SFA ordered emergency coal stocks held strictly for public utilities—such as electricity, gas, sewage disposal service and street railway transportation—and for such other essential services as railroads, laundries, dairies, bakeries, refrigeration plants, steamships, and for heating homes, apartments and hotels. Coal-burning railroads had already cut passenger service by 25 per cent yesterday.

A rigid checkup was ordered on the coal-saving dimout, which became effective at 6 p. m. yesterday in 21 states and the District of Columbia. The Civilian Production Administration noted that violators may be punished by a maximum $10,000 fine and one-year imprisonment.

Two U. S. Steel subsidiaries announced drastic curtailment of production, effective immediately, including a drop to 25 per cent of capacity by Carnegie-Illinois. Jones and Laughlin steel dropped to 63 per cent.

On the political side of the crisis, Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) renewed his call for President Truman to resign, declaring in a broadcast that the chief executive cannot deal with Lewis supported by "the full authority of our nation."

Schools, Steel Mills, Utilities And Industries Feel Acute Pinch

By Sterling F. Green

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The government, racing against factory shutdowns and emptying coal bins, aimed today for swift trial of John L. Lewis and clamped down sharp new curbs to save the nation's fast-ebbing supplies of fuel.

Federal attorneys said they will press for speed at every possible point when Lewis' trial on contempt charges begins tomorrow. Thursday — Thanksgiving Day — will be a holiday, but government lawyers said they will ask Judge T. Alan Goldsborough for a Friday session, breaking into the traditional long week-end after a holiday.

A high administration aide, talking with reporters on the understanding that he would not be quoted by name, said the government has pinned all its hopes for an early end to the strike on the legal proceedings. No other action is presently contemplated.

Social Events—Clubs

"Beauty Spots in Missouri" was the subject of the talk given Monday afternoon at the Sorosis club by George E. Moore of Sullivan, Mo., while his wife operated the machine showing slides of the beauties of nature within this state.

Mrs. Moore had college training as a naturalist but with Mr. Moore it was only a hobby. However he found his hobby so interesting that he became the first full time naturalist in Missouri parks. They began their unusual work in 1940 and are located at Merrimac park, which is typical of parks found in the southern part of the state.

A part of the 7,000 acres of the park has rugged hills, the Merrimac river, wild flowers and caverns and in this park are accommodations for visitors.

Since 1920 there has been a program of guides, rangers and camp fire in the Rockies and now a similar program is being provided in Merrimac park. Here may be found nature trails and bird walks.

The work of the Conservation Committee may also be found at Merrimac park where they are carrying on a comprehensive program of conserving the soil, fish and game. If hunting and fishing are to be preserved, Mr. Moore said, it must begin with the soil, streams and forests thereby creating shelter and food for the wild life. We can help supporting conservation legislation, Mr. Moore said, electing officers and creating funds. The only funds that are now available are through the hunting and fishing licenses.

Forests are important in Missouri, Mr. Moore said, as they comprise more than one half the area. There is a need for protection of the forest for the increasing of the humidity of the climate.

In the reforestation program the Conservation Committee has raised 1,000,000 trees each year to distribute throughout the state. The cutting of the forests cause a washing of the soil into the streams until soon the streams are dry beds.

The films shown by Mr. and Mrs. Moore were taken by them and many have been very difficult to obtain. There are pictures of native birds of which there are 345 kinds, only seven of which are not protected by law, flowers, berries, streams and park. They also showed the picture of the blue bird, which is the state bird and the hawthorne, the state flower.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore were introduced by Mrs. Arthur Klang.

Speakers at the meeting next Monday will be Miss Alice Alexander, supervisor of county extension clubs and Mrs. L. G. Berry of the Sunnyside Homemakers club, who will talk on "County Extension Clubs."

Mrs. D. S. Lamm, president of Sorosis, presided over the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bolton, 400 West Fifth street, entertained at a farewell dinner Sunday evening honoring Mrs. Wallace A. Lewis of Los Angeles, Calif., who is leaving Monday morning for her home. Mrs. Lewis has been visiting her mother Mrs. Julia Imhauser and her sister Mrs. Bolton and family and other relatives and friends in Sedalia.

Mrs. Lewis will leave via the Southern Pacific from Kansas City and will stop over a day in Tucson, Arizona, to visit a cousin Sister M. Ursula, a sister of Miss Rose Semon and also Sister Elida, who is the sister of Mrs. Herbert Zoernig, and a former classmate of Mrs. Lewis at the Benedictine Convent, Clyde, Mo.

Mrs. Bolton accompanied her sister to Kansas City.

Mr. Royal Anderson of Smithton was honored at his home Sunday on his 89 birthday.

A contributive dinner was served at noon, with two birthday cakes decorated for the occasion. During the afternoon songs were sung accompanied by Marjorie Billings.

Many nice gifts were received from the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. John Bohon, Mrs. C. L. Momborg, Mrs. Pearl Coffman, Mrs. C. O. Goodnight, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bohon, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bohon, Ed Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Anderson, Mrs. Leonard Smith all of Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eichholz of La Monte; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Miller of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Anderson and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Invited guests were: Mrs. Kenneth Galloway and children Gary and Charlotte; Mrs. Roy Ragar and son Gary; Mrs. Emvery Brown and son Larry; Mrs. Melvin Ray and daughter Judy Kay; Mrs. Gordon Brownfield and son Duane; Mrs. Selsus Iman and son Ken; Mrs. Charles Ward and son Harold; Dean; Mrs. Roscoe Nelson and daughters Donna and Joan; Miss Charlene Wisdom, Linda Eckhoff, Wayne Iman, Betty Sue Ward and Pattie Sears of Booneville.

Airplane Rides And Rentals Not Taxable

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 26.—(P)—Airplane rides and rental of airplanes are not taxable under the Missouri sales tax law, Attorney General J. E. Taylor ruled Monday.

In an opinion for W. O. Jackson, state sales tax supervisor, Assistant Attorney General Tyre W. Burton noted that the 1945-46 legislature included sale of airplane tickets among transactions defined as retail sales, but failed to include air transportation in the section actually imposing a two percent sales tax.

At the same time he found the rental of planes not taxable, because such a transaction would not give the renter continuous possession as required by law.

In other opinions, the attorney general ruled that:

Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg is entitled to state matching funds of $266,661 to purchase and furnish a dormitory under a state aid plan passed by the 1945-46 general assembly.

National banks are not required to file state income tax returns in Missouri because they are taxed in different ways.

When there is a tie vote between two candidates for county clerk, as happened in Gentry county, the sheriff must call a special election as soon as he is officially notified of the tie. Withdrawal of one of the candidates would not obviate the necessity of holding an election.

When two candidates for the county court are tied, as in Sullivan county, the sheriff determines the tie.

New Madrid county may not exceed the constitutional maximum levy of 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation in order to finance a DDT spraying program.

If Sen. Milton F. Napier wishes to resign his old 29th district seat in order to qualify for the new second district seat to which he is elected Nov. 5, he must submit his resignation to the Governor since the legislature is in recess.

Conserve Coal Is Donnelly Request

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 26.—(P)—Gov. Phil Donnelly Monday asked Missouri industries and individual citizens to help conserve coal and electricity in the emergency caused by the nation's coal shutdown.

"On account of the threat of an emergency caused by the coal strike," his proclamation said, "it becomes imperative that all citizens of Missouri take such steps as are necessary to conserve fuel and electric current."

He urged "all businesses, industries, utilities whether privately owned or publicly owned, and each and every citizen of this state to cooperate in the conservation of fuel and electric current, in order that life, public health, welfare and safety may be maintained until such time as the threatened emergency has passed."

The governor has been urged by the secretary of the interior to appoint a state coal conservator, but took no action on the request.

Last spring, in an earlier strike emergency, the chief executive castigated John L. Lewis but did not mention the mine leader today.

'Smoker Baby' in Children's Home

OMAHA, Nov. 26.—(P)—Two-year-old Sandra Lee, Omaha's "Smoker Baby," remained in a Nebraska children's home today, while an Omaha couple prepared to continue their fight to adopt her.

After County Judge Robert Troyer denied the application of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Caffery to adopt the child yesterday, Mrs. Caffery said the couple would "continue our fight for Sandy," because "we love her, and we still want her." Caffery had testified the child was given him in the smoking car of a train by Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, teen-age Utica, N. Y., mother, as he returned from Navy service November 15, 1945.

John L. Renno Is Fined In Police Court
John Howard Renno, R. F. D. No. 4, Sedalia, was fined $25 in police court Monday morning by Judge W. E. Scotten, on a charge of careless and reckless driving. Mrs. M. Burk, 400 East Twelfth street also charged with careless and reckless driving was dismissed in police court.

According to the police Mr. Renno was the driver of one car and Mrs. Burke another, which collided at Broadway and Ohio avenue, Sunday afternoon. Damage resulted to both vehicles.

Sixteen Arrested In CIO Demonstration

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 26.—(P)—Sixteen persons were arrested and 3 injured Monday as Milwaukee area CIO workers staged a mass demonstration, marked by stone throwing and picket line skirmishes, at the sprawling plant of the strikebound Allis-Chalmers manufacturing company.

More than 4,000 persons engaged in the demonstration, given in support of the striking UAW-CIO local 248. Those arrested were demonstrators, the sheriff's office said.

A Milwaukee policeman, a state highway patrolman and a picket were injured. Clashes between police and pickets were frequent and police formed wedges to rescue fellow officers in the throng or to bring out trouble makers.

The pickets, milling about the many plant gates, dispersed late in the afternoon, after Wisconsin's Governor Walter S. Goodland announced he would call national guardsmen if necessary to maintain order in the seventh-month-old strike.

Motorcycle Officer Victim Of A Thief

BALTIMORE, Nov. 25.—(P)—Patrolman Charles E. Krein was the unwilling owner of a false face today, and his own was slightly red.

While he was chasing speeding motorists on his motorcycle Saturday night, he reported, a thief broke into his house and:

1. Stole $900 worth of jewelry.
2. Ate a box of Krein's favorite chocolates.

3. Made off with three pairs of the patrolman's shoes.

In return the thief left a papier-mache false face and his own outworn footwear.

A King Where Nothings Wrong On Majuro Island, Everybody's Happy

Turmoil in the Rest of the World
Doesn't Mar Peace on This Atoll

This dispatch by NEA Staff Correspondent Douglas Larson was written from a pleasant island paradise he found on a month-long tour of the stepping stones of the U. S. used in the conquest of Japan.

What he found elsewhere, from the Marshalls to the Marianas, from Truk to Okinawa, was a paradox. An important background to the United States demand for exclusive UN trusteeship of the former Japanese mandate in the Pacific, Larson will tell the post-war story of these islands in a forthcoming series of exclusive dispatches.

For a clear perspective of the Pacific control the U. S. seeks, read Larson's series on "Paradox of the Pacific," in the Sedalia Democrat and Capital.

The Daily Washington Merry-go-Round

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—One interesting thing to watch in the new GOP congress is whether the Republicans carry out the La Follette-Monroney congressional reorganization bill. Already the whisper is going around capital cloakrooms that the Republicans will take the increased salary and pension benefits derived from the reorganization bill, but throw overboard provisions for increasing congressional efficiency. Already some Republicans are maneuvering to prevent consolidation of overlapping committees in order to preserve for themselves cushy chairmanships and extra money for clerical hire.

In this connection one important backstage battle is aimed at preventing a motherly GOP congresswoman, Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, from becoming chairman of the veterans committee. Mrs. Rogers has been a tireless worker for the veteran and as ranking Republican on the veterans committee, she should automatically become its chairman. However, because of her long running feud with roofter tootin' John Rankin of Mississippi, several Republicans and Democrats are conspiring to have her passed over.

Fair-minded Joe Martin, the spectre new speaker, has promised Mrs. Rogers that she will get the job, but the subrosa wire pulling against her continues. If she is passed over, Capitol Hill is sure to witness a veterans' march of protest.

Is Revolution Brewing in Cuba?

Sugar difficulties mean that the honeymoon is definitely over for Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, embattled president of Cuba, who took office in 1944 after the first completely free and honest balloting ever held in the island republic. With the solid backing of Cuba's strongest labor unions, student federations and independent citizens generally, Grau defeated the hand picked candidate

Plane Crash Victims Removed From Scene

BURBANK, Calif., Nov. 26.—(P)—Sheriff's officers from Los Angeles and Ventura counties last night removed the last 9 bodies from wreckage of a Western Air Lines plane that crashed on the White mountain November 13.

Snow previously had balked rescuers efforts after two of the 11 victims' bodies were brought down a narrow trail.

Officers today were forced to travel the last three miles to the crash scene through deep mud and slush.

The bodies were taken to the Los Angeles county morgue for identification. One previously was identified as that of Theodore Mathis, 23, co-pilot, of Whittier, Calif.

plenty to eat, are satisfied with their government and don't want a loan from the United States.

This astonishing discovery was made at one of the most unusual press conferences probably ever held. A party of 11 U. S. news correspondents visiting former Jap-held islands to make the first report on the Navy's island government administration interviewed King Lailon, monarch of 1,350 natives on this island paradise.

Through an interpreter he revealed that he and his people are much happier with America controlling his island than when the Japs had it. He said his people had no freedom under the Japs. The Japs wouldn't let them visit neighboring islands freely. The King said they didn't like the Japanese military government.

What did he think of the world situation in general? The King said he'd heard that it wasn't too good, but admitted he couldn't figure out why; everything is running very smoothly in his domain.

The happiness on this island kingdom is not echoed, however, on many of the other islands of the erstwhile Japanese mandate that were used as stepping stones to victory in the Pacific. The other story is one of shortages in a jungle of surpluses, of economic tumbling, and in many places, of a bitter tasting peace after a bitter war.

That story will provide, when it is unfolded, a sharp contrast to King Lailon's picture of a paradise of well-fed and happy subjects, where the crime rate is low, the divorce rate "normal," and the only labor trouble is a wife's occasional refusal to do the chores her husband has ordered her to do.

The King was asked if he approved of the wage scale set by the Navy for the few natives who worked at nearby bases. He replied: "It's fine."

The scale starts at about $15 per month.

It was only with reluctance that he admitted he needed anything from the United States. His people could use a couple of kegs of nails, or some tin roofing, he said.

One of the reporters explained that these items were hard to get at home, too. The King hastened to point out there was no hurry about the matter at all. Any time in the next few years would be all right.

The King was emphatic about not wanting or needing a loan from the U. S. even after one of the reporters assured him that he could probably get one if he would ask the State Department.

The conference was held on King Lailon's front porch. He was dressed in light GI khaki clothing. A large polished brass disk with a Navy insignia and the words "King of Majuro" inscribed hung around his neck suspended with a black Navy necktie. The King is more than 80 years old. He wore dark glasses.

During the conference a native backed off the ends of coconuts and passed them among the reporters to drink the juice. Before the conference started everyone had to shake hands several times with all the King's relatives and friends. A crowd of native children and women started from the King's front yard and giggled every time a question was asked. They laughed hysterically when the Navy photographer, Wilbur Gustafson, of Saginaw, Mich., took pictures and showed the King where to sit and how to pose. Every once in a while they would break out with a hymn. The day was Sunday and the island missionary had conducted services that day.

One of the Navy officers present asked the King if he had any message he wanted reporters to carry back to the President of the United States. The King asked that they just say hello the next time they see him.

The conference broke up when one of the reporters stood up and said: "Thank you, Mr. King."

Then there followed another siege of violent handshaking all around before the correspondents were allowed to leave.

Charged With Murdering Wife

MERCED, Calif., Nov. 26.—(P)—Guy Argo was arraigned in superior court Monday on a charge of murdering his ex-wife, Mrs. Genelle Luckett and his trial was set for December 16.

The former Hannibal, Mo., woman collapsed and died Nov. 7 after being escorted home by Argo, 43, who told police that he slapped her "around a little bit" during an argument but did not injure her.

District Attorney Claude H. Adams pressed the murder charge before Superior Judge H. S. Shaffer, who overruled Magistrate C. H. McCray's earlier decision to allow only a manslaughter charge against the Fresno man.

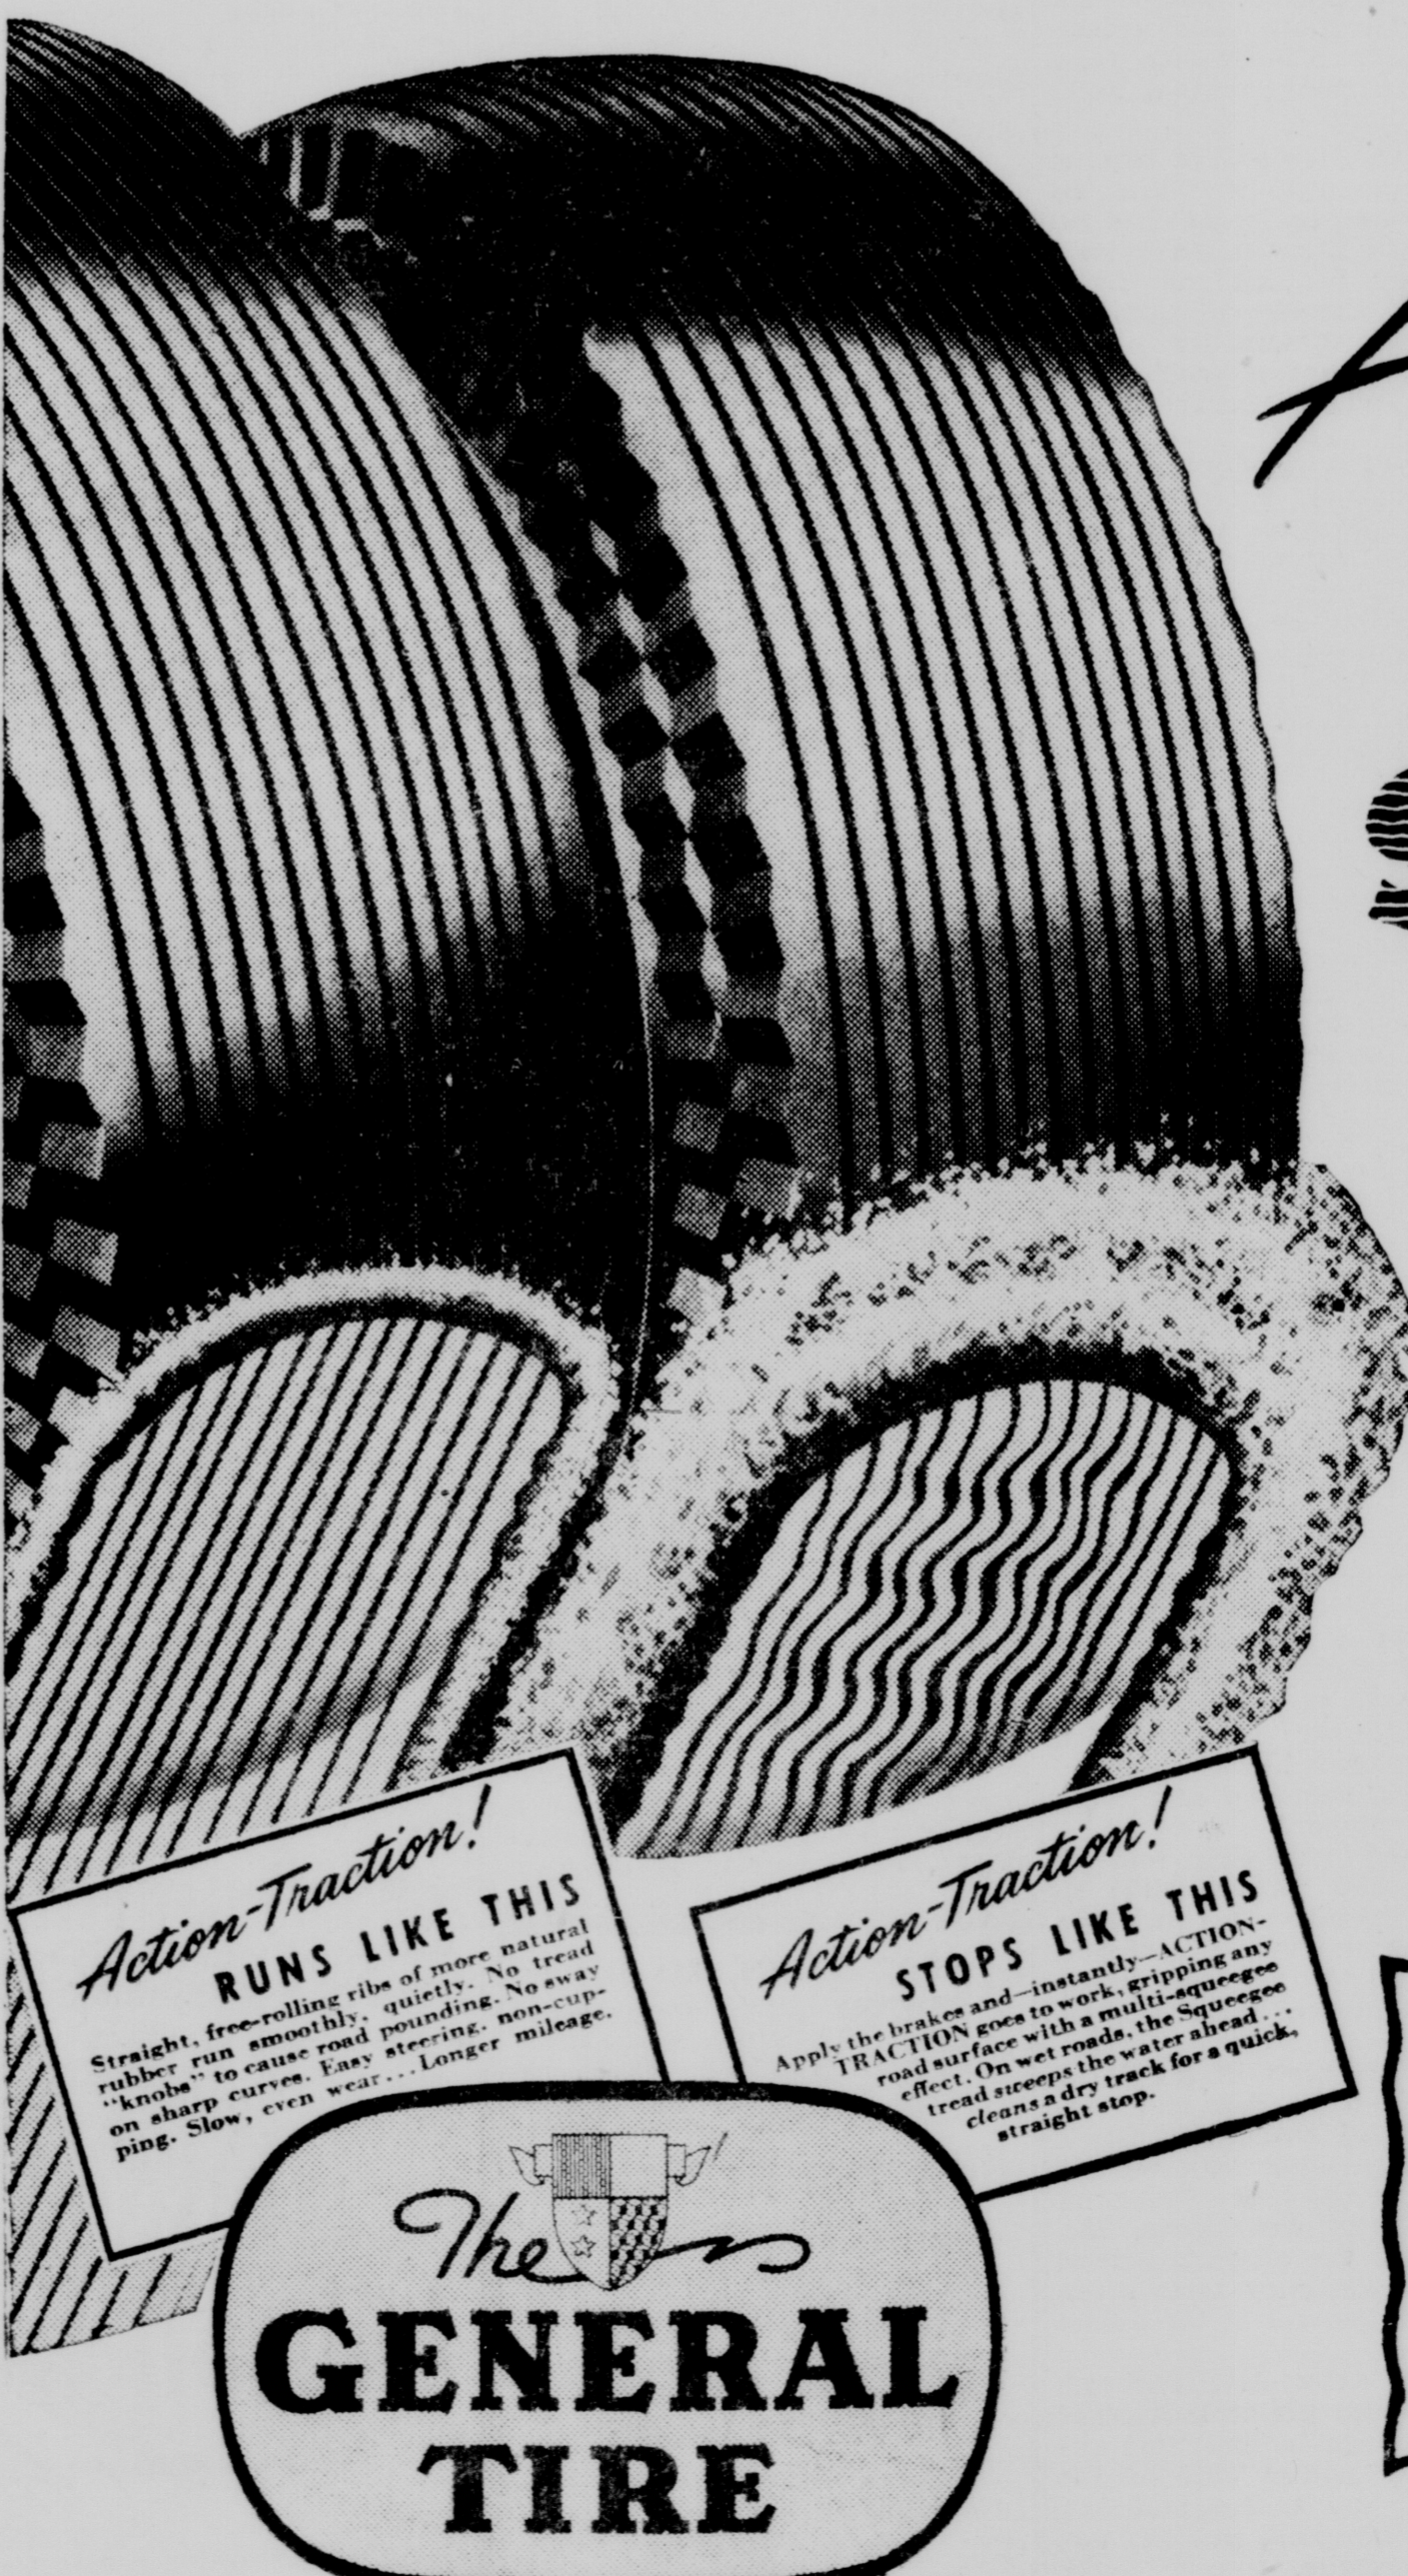

The prosecution produced photographs in court showing the condition of Mrs. Luckett's face after death.

Appropriation Bill Held Unconstitutional

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 26—(P)—A $2,000,000 appropriation to finance the first year's operations under a new state aid system, for rural Missouri roads was side-tracked Monday by an opinion of Attorney General J. E. Taylor holding it unconstitutional.

The opinion was written for State Auditor Forrest Smith by Assistant Attorney General Drake Watson. Smith said its finding that the allotment was "unconstitutional and void" would prevent him from allowing any claims from the state postwar reserve fund for the county aid road fund.

The appropriation was designed as the first in a $10,000,000 program of matching state money with county funds—up to $750 a mile—to build and improve local school bus, mail and milk routes.

The allotment, today's opinion said, violated the constitution by incorporating a reference to the original King "milk route" bill setting up the program.

Without the reference to the King bill, Watson wrote, the appropriation act "would leave the field wide open for expending said money on any county roads, and that was not the intent of the legislature."

Appropriation by reference to earlier legislation, the opinion noted, violates a section of the constitution "which says that every appropriation law shall distinctly specify the amount and purpose of the appropriation 'without reference to any other law to fix the amount or purpose.'"

Union Pacific To Cut Employee Rolls
OMAHA, Nov. 25—(P)—The Union Pacific railroad is going to have to trim its employee rolls from the present 50,000 to "about 45,000" because of declining earnings and higher operating costs, President G. F. Ashby said today.

Ashby said the railroad is reducing its personnel because the number employees had built up "over any reasonable peacetime demands."

Paradox of the Pacific: 2 War Leaves Pacific Isles Dependent on the U. S.

America's Reconversion Problems Reflected From Hawaii to China

From what material they can find, these Guamanians are rebuilding their home, destroyed when we took the island back from the Japs. But materials are scarce, and they are completely dependent on the U. S. for all but bare essentials.

Editor's Note: To give you a clearer picture of the problems already besetting the Pacific islands over which the United States is demanding exclusive control, an NEA Service correspondent takes you on a 25,000-mile tour of that vast ocean domain. This is the second of a series of dispatches based on his extensive trip.

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
GUAM—(NEA)—While the U. S. waits for international action on its demands for trusteeship in the Pacific, natives of those far-flung islands—and most of the Chinese, too—are waiting for the U. S. to solve its economic problems so they can begin enjoying the fruits of peace.

A 25,000-mile survey from Hawaii to the coastal cities of China, and the islands in between that were war-time stepping stones, reveals for the first time just how economically dependent this half of the world has become on America as a result of the war.

Inflationary prices, strikes, shortages and the reconversion problems which are distracting U. S. citizens are having exactly the same effect on the people out here.

And the longer there is economic fumbling and chaos in the States the weaker grows American prestige in China and control of the Pacific area. Ever since peace, the island citizens have been patiently waiting for the consumer goods, medicine and other items which their strong liberators told them they would get from the Americans. With each day of delay their economic paralysis grows worse. The islanders are beginning to wonder if maybe they didn't have more under Jap control.

Military authorities here are worried about the situation because they believe it might weaken our strategic position in the Pacific. It is certainly making America's burden of military government extremely difficult.

A Shanghai factory owner can't start his plant because he can't get materials he needs. And further he is afraid to contract for them because he doesn't know what will happen to prices of competitive goods imported from the U. S. The large industrial section of the city is practically closed down.

Military authorities out here also predict that the deal which gives China $500,000,000 worth of surplus property, in the Pacific will make China further dependent on the U. S. A lot of the surplus consists of trucks and jeeps. This has already created a demand for spare parts for this equipment.

Same Gun Kills Father And Son

GARY Ind., Nov. 25—(P)—Paul Woodruff, Sr., 46, died in Methodist hospital today from wounds suffered in a strange hunting accident which claimed the life of his son, Paul, Jr., 25.

Double funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for the father and son, who were automobile painters in a garage here.

Before his death the elder Woodruff gave an account of the weird series of circumstances which claimed his son's life Sunday and his own a day later.

The men were hunting along Burns ditch, east of here, when they came upon a raccoon caught in a trap. The son clubbed its head with the butt of a double-barrelled shotgun and one barrel was discharged. The charge struck young Woodruff in the abdomen and he died later in the Methodist hospital.

When the son fell, his father said, he was so close to the 'coon that the elder Woodruff could not shoot the animal without hitting his son. He added that the raccoon was trying to bite and claw the younger

"Lippy" Durocher Signs For A Year

BROOKLYN, Nov. 26—(P)—Leo Durocher, who insists he wants to stay in Brooklyn until the day he dies, Monday signed a 1-year contract to manage the Dodgers in 1947 at a flat salary representing a substantial increase over his bonus arrangement in 1946.

Although exact details of his financial pact with President Branch Rickey were not divulged, it had been reported that Durocher was paid a basic $42,000 plus approximately $20,000 in attendance bonuses last season. In any event he definitely is in the higher brackets.

"I have no doubt that Leo is the highest-priced manager in baseball," Rickey admitted. "A bonus arrangement was not discussed nor was a long-term contract. You may find it hard to believe, but we didn't even talk salary. I would like to make it clear that we were not man. So the father retrieved the gun and also struck the 'coon with the bat. The blow discharged the other barrel and the father also was shot in the abdomen.

Blast Government For Seeking Injunction

By James Marlow
WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—(P)—A court injunction (order) to prevent a strike is sheer poison to organized labor.

That's why the CIO and AFL so bitterly blasted the government for seeking a federal injunction to prevent the coal miners' walkout.

What had happened was this: The government went into federal court Nov. 18. It asked the judge for an injunction against Lewis.

It wanted the injunction to stop John L. Lewis from ending his contract to mine coal for the government and from encouraging his miners to walk out.

Instead of issuing an injunction right away, the court issued a temporary order telling Lewis not to do those things.

The court told Lewis to appear in court Nov. 27 to show cause why the judge shouldn't issue an injunction, which would last longer than just a temporary order.

History Behind Scream
Without going into all the details which followed, that's where the case stood—a temporary order against Lewis, maybe to be followed by an injunction—when the CIO and AFL screamed.

Here's the history behind the scream:

Organized labor has had an uphill struggle in this country. For most of our history the courts have been on the side of the employers.

Until the 1880's unions were often prosecuted as conspiracies. Then the courts clouted unions on the head by issuing injunctions.

(An injunction is a court order forbidding a man or group of men to do something. For example: Striking.)

The courts' view—meaning the judges' view—was this: The right to do business is a property right. If a man can't do business—say, because of a strike—he suffers a property loss.

Corporations Bloated
In 1890 congress passed the Sherman anti-trust act to curb business monopolies and prevent their interfering with trade. This came at a time when corporations were getting badly bloated.

But federal judges began to use the anti-trust act—through injunctions—against trade unions on the grounds that some of their activities, like those of big corporations, interfered with trade.

Organized labor fought long and hard to wipe out this interpretation of the anti-trust act by the courts. And in 1914 congress passed the Clayton act to amend the Sherman act and protect unions from it.

But then the supreme court ruled that the Clayton act did not exempt labor from the anti-trust provisions of the Sherman act. So federal courts continued to issue injunctions against labor unions.

Famous Labor Act
At last congress in 1932 passed the Norris-LaGuardia act—a very famous act in labor history—which puts a stiff limit on the use federal courts can make of injunctions in labor disputes.

Many states adopted similar laws. And that pretty well put an end to the injunction as a powerful anti-union weapon, a weapon freely used by courts and employers for 50 years.

The most famous—or infamous, depending upon the viewpoint—use of the injunction was in 1894 when an order against the strike leaders smashed the great Pullman strike led by Eugene V. Debs.

In the Lewis case the labor leaders have pointed to the Norris-LaGuardia act in their argument an injunction should not be used in the coal miners' walkout.

The government argues this way: The Norris-LaGuardia act never was meant to prevent the federal government's getting an injunction, or else it would have said so specifically in the act.

It was meant, the government argues, only to prevent private employers from using the injunction.

America's first street lights were pine knots, placed in iron baskets and lighted by night watchmen, about 1795.

Greeks Will Fight to Maintain the Monarchy

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The British-backed Greek government's fight to maintain the monarchy in the face of heavy communist onslaughts from various directions has reached a pitch which threatens to raise barbed international questions—specifically for the Big Three and in general for the whole United Nations.

Sources close to Premier Tsaldaris said Saturday that he hoped to present personally to the U. N. Security Council complaints about the alleged violation of the Greek frontier along the Albanian-Yugoslav-Bulgarian borders. These informants said Tsaldaris had decried making the complaints because he disliked to raise any new western allies.

At the same time Greek War Minister Dragomiris declared in Salonika that "Greece had decided to fight for her independence and democracy—at any cost. We cannot accept a totalitarian system, which is contrary to our character and tradition."

Await Action on Complaint
Yesterday, however, Premier Tsaldaris, after conferring with the king of the Hellenes, said he didn't "know when, where and if" a Greek complaint of border violations would be lodged with the U. N. He added that this hinged on "developments in the course of evolution."

One wonders whether this means the premier has been advised by England to go slow with complaints, because Europe already is running a fever. But that's merely speculation on my part—based on the undoubted fact that the Balkans are seething and that an outbreak of war there could precipitate another global conflict.

You don't need a telescope to see what is going on there. Greece is the last of the countries on the Balkan peninsula not communized and under the control of Moscow. Greece's entire northern frontier lies up against Red territory—Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria. Romania came even more solidly into the Soviet ranks last week through her general election which was announced as having registered a Red majority.

Minister of War Dragomiris, after visiting Northern Greece, charged that the disorders in Macedonia and Western Thrace was "inspired and directed" by agents trained in Yugoslavia and moved into Greece by three routes: through Albania, directly from Yugoslavia, and into Thrace through the mountainous area near our eastern frontier—that is, from Bulgaria.

There you have the makings of a first-class Balkan war. As a matter of fact, if General Dragomiris has his information straight, the war already is under way to all intents. In any event, there is rebellious violence in many parts of Greece, quite apart from anything which might come down on her from the Red north.

How to roast poultry
These charts will guide you all through the holiday season in roasting poultry just the right length of time.

TIME TABLE FOR TURKEYS
Roast turkeys in a slow oven (325° F.) for best results.

Weight of Turkey	Total Roasting Time	Time per Pound
8 to 10 lbs.	3 to 3½ hours	20 to 25 minutes
10 to 12 lbs.	3½ to 4 hours	18 to 20 minutes
12 to 14 lbs.	4 to 4½ hours	16 to 18 minutes

The smaller the turkey, the greater the number of minutes per pound is required for roasting.

If the turkey is extremely cold when put in the oven, add 30 to 60 minutes to the roasting time. To test for doneness, grasp the end of the drumstick; if the joints in the thigh break or move easily, the turkey is done.

The Doctor Says

Prenatal Scare

Since it is not possible to mark a baby by frightening the mother before birth, why does that old superstition persist?

The most likely reason is that parents and friends, in searching for something which might account for a baby's abnormality, seize upon and magnify some perfectly innocent prenatal incident.

Birthmarks and other deformities which are present at birth can be explained on perfectly natural grounds.

A common tale is the one about the "strawberry" mark, which many mothers believe is caused by the mother's having crushed a strawberry on her skin during her pregnancy. When the tissues of the "strawberry" mark are examined under the microscope, they are found to consist of blood vessels and to bear not the slightest resemblance to the cellular structure of a strawberry.

Common Misconception
Many of the frights and scares which a mother may reason caused her child's deformity occurred long after she became pregnant, at a time when the baby was completely formed.

The idea of maternal impressions is held by people everywhere, and superstitious "cures" for birth marks abound in the folklore of every country. The Bureau of Health Education of the American Medical Association reports that questions about birthmarks are among the commonest it receives.

Many infants are malformed as a result of illness in the mother during pregnancy. If the mother acquires German measles in the first two months of pregnancy, the virus may cause an infection which will produce in the developing infant such difficulties as cataracts, heart trouble and mental retardation.

Difference in the parents' blood groups are sometimes the cause of the difficulty.

More often, however, the cause is the fact that the mother received a transfusion of incompatible blood before she became pregnant. This form of difficulty in the baby can by Rene Ryerson Mart Copyright, 1946, NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Red McFan, army pilot, comes home with a chestful of ribbons and a cocky swagger. When Russ Condon, his closest friend, asks Elise Varney to find a date for Red, she invites Sally Clark—beautiful but cold. Red needs defusing. Elise thinks, and Sally is the girl to do it. Red thinks the evening a flop, starts to reminisce about the wild times he and Russ had in Paris. Russ tries to stop him.

RUSSEL'S abrupt action had the desired effect. It broke up Red's reminiscences. Red began to clamber to his feet.

"Yes," he said. "Come on—let's dance."

Elise stood up, and they waited for Sally and there wasn't much Sally could do but accept the situation. She went gingerly into Red's arms.

Russ' eyes followed the other couple worriedly as they moved around the floor.

"I don't know what got into Red," he said apologetically. His face was still crimson with embarrassment.

Elise felt her own guilt too much to blame Red unreservedly. "I'm afraid it's Sally," she acknowledged. "She's given him an inferiority complex—she usually does."

Russ looked at her sharply. "Why did you ask her? Wasn't there anyone else?"

Elise was driven to a small lie: "I—I thought Red might be good for her."

Russ tucked her closer into his arms. "Well, forget it, honey. This is our dance." His lips brushed the dark hair above her forehead.

Elise looked up at him happily and his arms tightened about her. "You're sweet," he said.

The music had stopped before they were aware of it and suddenly they felt a little foolish alone there on the floor in each other's arms. Russ laughed and disengaged her and they went back to their table.

Red was there, alone. He had another whisky before him and he was scowling darkly at the glass.

"Where's Sally?" Elise asked quickly.

Red nodded vaguely. "Elise met Russel's puzzled eyes. 'I'll go find her,' she said. She picked up her little beaded purse and went in the direction of Red's nod."

She found Sally in the powder room, repairing her make-up.

SALLY saw Elise in the mirror and said without turning her head and with cool firmness: "I'll not dance anymore with your Mr. McFan. He must have thought I was his 'Margie' the way he tried to wolf me. Disgusting!"

"He's not my Mr. McFan," Elise said weakly. "He's a friend of Russel's. And—and Sally you might try to be a little more friendly."

Sally had finished her perfect mouth. She dropped the lipstick into her bag. "You know how I feel about these things," she said.

There wasn't anything Elise could say. Of course, she knew how Sally felt about these things—that was why she had asked her.

No, there was no use in feeling angry at Sally. Elise admitted to herself. It was her own fault entirely.

Red was still drinking when they went back to the table. And he was beginning to get ugly. "Might as well get drunk," he said thickly. "Katy Hepburn won't dance with me."

"I'll dance with you, Red," Elise said.

She waited while he got clumsily to his feet. She saw that he was really a little drunk and she half regretted her impulse.

But she forgot that when Red put his arms about her. There was a magnetic vitality about the man that was like an electric charge. Elise's bare skin tingled under his touch. She tried to draw away from him a little. He held her closer.

The uncertainty of Red's movements vanished the moment they started to dance. He was light and smooth on his feet. Their steps matched effortlessly.

"Say, we do all right together, baby," Red said. He seemed as surprised at it as she was.

He held her very closely. Around and around they circled with the hypnotic rhythm of the music welding them together.

Elise pulled herself sharply from his arms when the music ceased. She was breathless.

Russel looked up and shrugged when they got back to the table. "Sally wants to go home," he said.

Elise was conscious of a sharp relief. "I think we had better go," she agreed.

THEY drove Sally home first, and then a definitely groggy Red. Russel went in with him and put him to bed. When he came back he got in the car and drove for awhile without saying anything.

Elise thought, "He is angry with me for inviting Sally."

Her hand stole out and touched his on the steering wheel. And suddenly the fevered nightmare of the evening fell away. There was no Red McFan, no Sally Clark, no complications. Just she and Russel and the sweetness of complete understanding.

He stopped the car and took her in his arms. "Oh, Elise—Elise—" For a moment she felt his heart throbbing close to hers. She waited to say.

But some fear, some lack of courage held him back.

He kissed her again and let her go. "It's late, dear. I'd better take you home."

She thought of that moment many times afterward. She thought of how different everything would have been if Russel had said he loved her and asked her to marry him, then.

Machinery For German Rule Stalled by Big Four

By Edwin Shanke

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—(P)—The Allied Control Authority, the machinery through which the United States, Great Britain, France and the Soviet Union jointly control and govern Germany, is standing at dead center, waiting for a new impulse from the foreign ministers meeting in New York.

For months, the Allied Control Authority (ACA) has been unable to clear any far-reaching legislation affecting Germany as a whole, such as knocking down zonal barriers to give her political and economic unity. Unanimous decisions are required.

France has refused to go along for political reasons. She wants a settlement of the western German boundaries. Russia has stalled for economic reasons. Before cooperating, she has insisted on approval to take reparations out of current German production.

It is this stalemate which caused Secretary of State James Byrnes to declare in his Stuttgart speech that the Allied Control Council neither governs Germany nor allows Germany to govern herself so far as many vital questions are concerned.

Believed Workable

On the whole, however, most of the men who work in the ACA think it was well devised and could work well.

Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who as Deputy American military governor, sits on the ACA coordinating committee, says "differences in economic and political thinking" have "prevented to date the establishment of a true quadripartite government for Germany as a whole."

Although there still is no central German governmental machinery, the "quadrupartite" government should not be considered a complete failure," he said.

"If basic differences can be resolved at governmental level," he continued, "it promises much for the future."

The Allied Control Authority's job is without precedent in history. Never before have four allied countries so different in language, background and outlook attempted to run a country so completely ruined morally and materially as Germany.

To the men working in the ACA, it is important that it succeed, not only in getting Germany back on its feet again, but also from a world-wide outlook.

Must Agree at Home

As one diplomat put it, "If we can't agree on how to run one country, there wouldn't seem to be much hope that we'd be able to work together on a wider sphere."

Unable to slice through to the heart of Germany's problem—establishment of a central German administration—the Allied Control Authority and Germany generally are looking to the foreign ministers to resolve the differences among the "Big Four." The military governors then presumably could get the ACA machine rolling again on major issues.

Meantime, the control council continues to meet three times monthly in Berlin's former central and criminal courts building in the American sector of the city.

Its members are the four commanders-in-chief of the occupying forces—General Pierre Koenig for the French, Marshal V. Sokolovsky for the Russians, General Joseph T. McNarney for the Americans, and Marshal Sir Sholto Douglas for the British.

Built Like Pyramid

The Allied Control Authority is built like a pyramid. At its apex is the Allied Control Council, exercising supreme authority under their respective governments. The Council's decisions must be unanimous on all questions affecting Germany as a whole. Its chairmanship rotates among the four nations each month.

Directly subordinate to the council is the coordinating committee, wheel horse of the ACA set-up. Its members presently are General Clay, General Sir Brian Robertson for the British, General P. Kurochkin for the Russians and General R. Nojret for the French.

To prepare the agenda for discussion by the control council and to receive the council's instructions the coordinating committee meets three days before and two days after each council meeting.

Unofficial Cabinet

Working under the coordinating committee is an unofficial cabinet of 12 divisions or directorates: Military, naval and air, which after

January 1 will be combined; reparations, delivery and restitution, transport, political, economics, internal affairs and communications, legal, finance, manpower, prisoners of war and displaced persons.

In addition, there are 116 working committees handling technical details.

The directorates are the link to each zone of occupation. Each directorate has a parallel in the military government of the four zones and the head of each of these sits on the ACA directorate.

It is through the directorate or the coordinating committee that most business enters the ACA machinery. The reports then pass up until they reach the control council for action. When business comes in at control council level, it usually is referred to the coordinating committee for study.

Procedure

If there is unanimous agreement on the council then action takes place through.

Laws—To enforce a decision which has general application. Proclamations—In cases of spe-
